AI-Powered Leadership

Mastering the Synergy of Technology and Human Expertise

Dave Silberman, Rich Maltzman, Loredana Abramo, Vijay Kanabar

SYNOPSIS

It's not enough to fully understand the technology of AI, leaders must understand how to employ power skills to elevate the interactions between AI and humans and the importance of the conversation between humans and humans, and humans and AI. Critical thinking, leadership, conflict management, stakeholder engagement and other power skills are essential in all projects.

AI-Powered Leadership aims to empower leaders to navigate the complexities of the AI-driven world by developing human competencies and integrating them with AI capabilities, fostering a balanced, innovative, and ethically sound leadership approach that drives sustainable success. It aims to provide a comprehensive framework for leaders to understand and apply the "Both/And" strategy in leadership, where leaders don't have to choose between traditional methods and AI-driven innovation but can leverage the strengths of both. The approach of the book is a practical, integrative framework that combines theory with actionable strategies to help leaders navigate the complex dynamics of AI in their organizations.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Loredana Abramo has 30+ years of experience in global telecommunications and corporate program management. A Doctor in Electrical Engineering and certified PMP®, she holds a patent for telecom automation and teaches project management at Boston University. Loredana has co-authored books on project management and is an active contributor to IEEE and PMI.

Rich Maltzman is a Master Lecturer at Boston University, author, and consultant with a 40-year telecom career. Known for promoting sustainability in project management, he has authored nine books, including GreenPMO, and hosts the podcast B'yond PM.

Dave Silberman is a senior executive, lecturer, and USA Today best-selling author specializing in workplace dynamics. A decorated U.S. veteran, he holds a Ph.D. in Human Resources Development and frequently writes for Forbes.

Vijay Kanabar, Ph.D. is a professor and director of Project Management at Boston University. A pioneer in PMI certifications, he has authored several books and research papers and won PMI's Linn Stuckenbruck Teaching Excellence Award.

DIY AI

Step-by-Step Artificial Intelligence Projects for Makers and Hackers

Serg Masís, Rolando Masís, Javier Masís

SYNOPSIS

The market of A.I. enthusiasts and professionals is underserved by books that are either too academic, or too shallow and cursory, with example toy datasets that aren't helpful for real-world applications. Few books cover projects that can be implemented at home and, most importantly, for pleasure. The play or fun component is missing from existing titles.

DIY AI has eight open-source projects that are designed to teach practical AI while appealing to Makers and other Do-It-Yourself types. Projects can become valuable beyond a teaching device because readers will be able to optionally implement four of these projects in embedded devices or use their own data should they choose to do so. The book is being published at a time when open-source AI software is mature enough and hardware powerful enough for use by anyone.

On the surface, the book's topic is artificial intelligence, but its approach is one of a book for hobbyists. It's a fun, step-by-step, hands-on book for people who want to learn to apply this technology in their own projects.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Serg Masís (Morrisville, NC) is a Data Scientist at Syngenta, a leading agribusiness company with a mission to improve global food security, and a bestselling author on books about responsible practices in machine learning. Before that, he had a prior career in entrepreneurship, web and app development, and analytics for more than fifteen years.

Rolando Masís (Princeton, NJ) is a scientist, filmmaker and AR/VR app developer. He obtained his bachelor's in Molecular, Cellular and Developmental Biology from Yale University and is currently a senior neuroscience graduate student at Princeton University. Rolando's work focuses on leveraging ML methods to better understand how we behave and remember across different environments. His passion to spread knowledge lead him to develop guides and tutorials for underrepresented students in science and in AR/VR.

Javier Masís (Princeton, NJ) is a postdoctoral research fellow in cognitive psychology at Princeton University and an accomplished Jazz and Rock musician. He obtained his PhD in neuroscience at Harvard University, and his bachelor's summa cum laude in molecular biology and neuroscience at Princeton University. His work focuses on building models of how the brain learns and makes decisions.

Using Artificial Intelligence

Absolute Beginner's Guide

Michael R. Miller

SYNOPSIS

Navigate the AI revolution with confidence: understand, use, and benefit responsibly.

AI is a radical new technology, and it can be confusing and intimidating to use. This book provides a clear, accessible guide to using AI safely and effectively in daily life.

There are seemingly unlimited options to employ AI daily, and almost as many AI tools available. Sorting through these options and understanding how they work are just a few things we will need to do moving forward. Just as critical is being aware of and able to recognize AI's limitations and risks. AI is rife with misinformation and opens the door to sophisticated scams. AI can be seen as threatening to human security and having the potential to replace humans in many areas.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Michael Miller has written more than 200 non-fiction books over the past three decades. Collectively, his books have sold more than a million copies worldwide. His best-selling books for Que include My iPad for Seniors, My Video Chat for Seniors, My TV for Seniors, My Social Media for Seniors, My Facebook for Seniors, My Smart Home for Seniors, My Samsung Galaxy S7 for Seniors, Computer Basics: Absolute Beginner's Guide, and Easy Computer Basics.

Office Monsters

A Survival Guide to Corporate Madness

Martin J. Eppler and Andri Hinnen

SYNOPSIS

Beware – Office Monsters is not your typical management guide – it's gooey, graphic, and downright monstrous. Ever been ambushed by the Yes Yeti or cornered at the coffee machine by an Energy Draining Dracula? Learn how to slay it at work by facing the monsters within and around you. A laugh-out-loud guide to mastering the most monstrous of management challenges.

Aimed at leaders, managers, and anyone seeking improvement in their work lives, the book is structured into three sections: monsters lurking within us, those pretending to be our colleagues, and the omnipresent bureaucracy beasts. Delight in meeting the overpowering Yes Yeti or the mischievous Time Trolls. Learn how to fend off the Draining Dracula or the Multitask Medusa and dare to kill the Strategy Chimera or the Project Zombie.

By the end, you'll be equipped with a practical manual to help you discover and address your very own professional monsters, turning your work villains into allies and finding ways to subdue even the mightiest beasts of bureaucracy and corporate life.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Martin J. Eppler is the author of more than two hundred academic papers and twenty-four books, including How to Talk about Data (FT Publishing), of which several have won awards such as International Business Book of the Year, HR Book of the Year, and Career Book of the Year.

In addition to his university role (where he led an MBA program for many years), he is an advisor to organizations such as the United Nations, the European Central Bank, Porsche, Swiss Re, the Anti-Tobacco Fund, Salesforce, and others. He's been a guest professor at institutions such as Cambridge University, Georgia Tech, Simon Fraser University, and CUFE Beijing.

He is the inventor of the periodic table of visualization methods, the let's-focus software suite, the synergy map method, and the nudging approach to meetings.

Andri Hinnen MA is the Founder of Zense, a consultancy and agency that specializes in reframing complexity and communicating change. Andri is also a lecturer on storytelling and visualization at the University of St. Gallen.

Badly Behaved People

How to Deal with Idiots at Work

Zena Everett

SYNOPSIS

Is it me with this problem? Or is it them? How often have you asked yourself this? Are you baffled by other people's surprising, sometimes useless, difficult, conflicting, apathetic, or even toxic behaviour? We've all had to work with (and for) shirkers, underperformers, over-bearing people, timewasters, managers who can't manage, lazy people and others who seem at cross purposes with the rest of the team. It's hard to understand people who think and behave differently from us, perhaps with conflicting values. Especially if they won't listen to you.

This book dissects the complexity of your people problems in a highly engaging and empowering way. We all need to understand each other better. And if you ever wondered what exactly an executive coach does, Zena reveals the dark arts of her booming but largely unregulated profession.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Zena Everett is an international leadership coach and in-demand Speaker. Zena is the author of Mind Flip, Take the Fear out of Your Career and the award-winning The Crazy Busy Cure.

Originally a recruitment entrepreneur, Zena sold her business in 2007 then studied an MSc in Career Management and Coaching. She then took further post-graduate qualifications in psychological coaching and leadership with neuroscience (MIT Sloan Business School). She has coached on the Executive MBA Programme at Oxford University's Saïd Business School and is a member of the Associate Faculty at Henley Business School. She runs bespoke, lively leadership programmes in aspiring businesses who want to boost accountability and productivity.

The Imposter Phenomenon

Why You Feel Like a Fraud and What You Can Do About It

Kate Atkin

SYNOPSIS

Over 70% of people will experience the imposter syndrome at some point in their lives.

Celebrities such as Michelle Obama, Sheryl Sandberg and Tom Hanks have all spoken about their imposter feelings and even Einstein described himself as an “involuntary swindler”. But self-doubt and a lack of confidence are not the same as imposter syndrome, and in fact, it isn't really a syndrome at all.

This book challenges some of the common misconceptions about the imposter syndrome. Grounded in academic research, this book covers what the imposter phenomenon is, where these thoughts can come from, the impact they can have, the stresses they cause and, importantly, what you can do about them. Containing insights from ground-breaking research investigating how finding the inner courage to accept how good you are can help banish imposter thoughts.

This book explains the pitfalls and the intricacies of what is really a phenomenon – an occurrence at certain points in time – and how you can help yourself and others who experience it.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kate Atkin is the author of The Confident Manager, and The Presentation Workout (Pearson Business) and co-author of The Business of Professional Speaking.

By the time this book is published, the author, Kate Atkin, will have completed her doctorate research on the imposter phenomenon in the workplace, coping strategies, and the role of psychological courage.

Kate regularly speaks to business audiences, both large and small, globally as well as in the UK, on how to banish, or at least diminish, the imposter phenomenon at work and how to support others. During the course of her workshops, as well as her research, Kate has spoken with hundreds of successful people who experience imposter feelings and has a unique insight into their experiences.

The Circular Business Revolution

A Practical Framework for Sustainable Business Models

Julia Binder and Manuel Braun

SYNOPSIS

Organisations everywhere are being challenged to become more sustainable: to move from a linear 'take-make-waste' approach, towards one that is circular, resource productive, regenerative, and resilient in nature. But it's hard to put into action without answers to the following questions:

- How do you overhaul your business while maintaining revenue and profits?
- How do you turn linear supply chains into circular supply loops?
- How do you identify concrete business opportunities?
- How do you design your organisation for circularity?
- How to overcome the critical challenges of implementing new business models?

This book gives you a comprehensive and practical toolkit to understand how your organisation works now, the opportunities it has within the circular economy, and how to put it all into practice effectively. Transform your organisation in a way that's good for business, people and the environment.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Prof. Dr. Julia Binder is Professor of Sustainable Innovation and Business Transformation at IMD and Director of the IMD Center for Sustainable and Inclusive Business. In 2022, Julia was selected for the Thinkers50 radar list as one of the 30 thinkers to watch in the coming year. Prior to joining IMD, Julia was Deputy to the Vice President for Innovation at EPFL and led the school's sustainability initiative Tech4Impact.

Dr. Manuel Braun is Director at Systemiq Ltd and lecturer at the Technical University of Munich (TUM). Systemiq is a global think-and-do-tank focused on sustainability and the Circular Economy, where Manuel leads the circular business models activities – working with pioneering organizations, investors and entrepreneurs. Before that, he spent 8 years at McKinsey & Company in Munich and London, where he led sustainable product development and design projects industries. He is lecturer for executive courses and affiliate researcher at TUM.

Trust Your Gut

Go With Your Intuition and Make Better Choices

Eugene Sadler Smith

SYNOPSIS

This book is about a skill that's uniquely human, can't be replicated by machines, and opens the door to improved decision-making, problem-solving, interpersonal functioning, creativity, invention and innovation. It's your business superpower for the information age.

That skill is intuition, and this book will show you how to nurture your intuitive intelligence and boost your decision-making and problem-solving power in more authentic, satisfying and sustainable ways because it comes from the head, heart and gut.

By harnessing the power of your intuitions, you'll be able to take quicker and more accurate decisions in fast-moving situations with limited information, gain insights into other people's states of mind, motives and intentions, sense what's the right thing to do when you're ethically challenged, seek-out creative solutions to your decisions and dilemmas, and much more.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Eugene Sadler-Smith is Professor of Organizational Behaviour at Surrey Business School University of Surrey. He is a widely recognized authority and one of the world's most highly cited researchers on the subject of intuition (see relevant Web of Science and Google Scholar metrics). He has spoken frequently on this topic at leading international academic conferences (e.g. US Academy of Management) and to professional audiences (e.g. Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development). His research has also been featured on TV and in the media.

Quiet Leader

What You Can Learn From the Power of Introverts

Sissel Heiberg

SYNOPSIS

You don't have to be an extrovert to be a good leader.

This book will help all introverts in business understand the value they add, help them become better leaders, and how to understand and overcome the extrovert bias they might encounter. Rather than changing your personality, Quiet Leader will help you use your strengths as an introvert to bring out the best in colleagues and team members, and better understand how to become better leaders themselves. With tangible examples and new ideas, you'll find ways to enhance your introvert skills by adopting the strategies and tools provided.

Building on research and interviews by the author, each chapter focuses on the strength of introverts, explaining why it is a valuable leadership trait and includes a toolkit with strategies and tools to develop, build and use these skills more in work.

Featured in the Pearson Business Book Club. Scan the QR code to watch a recording of the session

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sissel Heiberg is an introverted business leader with almost 20 years of governance experience in the extrovert-dominated field of investment banking. In her career she has had a wide range of professional experiences that have led her to reflect on her own journey as a business leader and the existing leadership stereotypes.

She would like to use her background to provide a new perspective to help other introverted leaders and expand the conversation on what good leadership looks like.

The Mindfulness Habit

Build Your Calm, Day by Day

Lisa Wren

SYNOPSIS

Stress, overwhelm and exhaustion are commonplace for us all, and over time can lead to poor mental and physical health and burnout. One solution to this is mindfulness, which can help you feel calmer, healthier, happier, and more intentional. But just finding the time can be a struggle.

The Mindfulness Habit gives you a clear and practical way to make mindfulness part of your daily routine. With a structured plan, you'll learn the theory of mindfulness, listen to the practices, and discover your own personal mindful approach and how to integrate this into your life. You'll feel less stressed, more motivated, more productive, and make better decisions.

Written by a trained mindfulness teacher, with years of professional experience delivering mindfulness in the workplace, this book draws on established mindfulness techniques and theory alongside a host of practical tools and exercises.

Featured in the Pearson Business Book Club. Scan the QR code to watch a recording of the session

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Brilliant Teaching Assistant

2nd Edition

Louise Burnham

SYNOPSIS

Teaching assistants play a crucial role in today's schools. In addition to supporting the learning of pupils and helping to take care of children's emotional and social needs, they need to be able to turn their hands to most things in school – from dealing with an injured pupil to supervising outings. But what does it really take to excel as a teaching assistant?

This book will give you the knowledge, practical guidance and tools you need to shine inside and outside the classroom as a teaching assistant. Through real-life examples, case studies, activities, do and don't lists and tips, you'll explore the varied roles teaching assistants occupy in schools and learn how to deal with common issues that may arise.

- Understand the school curriculum, timetabling and planning.
- Better support the pupils in your care.
- Explore digital teaching and learning.
- Manage pupil behaviour in the classroom.
- Work more effectively with other school staff.

This edition adds a new chapter on equality and diversity in schools and new material on digital learning, as well as a general refresh to bring the book up to date with the latest legislation and guidance on working practices in schools.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Louise Burnham is a teacher, assessor and qualifications developer. She has worked in education for thirty years, both in primary schools and further education colleges. Her roles in schools have included senior management as EYFS manager as well as that of SENDCo. She led teaching assistant training in a south London college for many years and currently continues to teach part time in a primary school as well as working as an assessor and advisor for teaching assistants and students of early years, and volunteering for a local toddler group.

She has written over 20 books for early years/TA students and her name is well known in this area as a result, particularly for the textbooks for Supporting Teaching and learning at levels 2 and 3.

The Family Business Book

A Roadmap for Entrepreneurial Families to Prosper Across Generations

Alfredo de Massis and Emanuela Rondi

SYNOPSIS

Only 30% of first-generation family businesses make it to the second generation, 12% survive from the second to the third generation and only 4% reach the fourth generation.

Family businesses account for two-thirds of all businesses around the world, 70-90% of global GDP and employ 50-80% of employees. But succeeding across generations is tricky, and only a few survive across generations.

The Family Business Book is your comprehensive guide to building a strategy for your organisation to prosper now and thrive across generations into the future. With a practical roadmap, you'll discover how to understand the strengths and weaknesses of your family business, how to disentangle complicated family dynamics, and how to build a strategic plan for success in the future.

Full of practical templates and actionable strategies, you can also access videos of the family business interviews online, and use the app/game for your family business journey.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Alfredo De Massis is a Professor of Entrepreneurship & Family Business. He is affiliated with IMD Business School (Switzerland) the Free University of Bozen-Bolzano (Italy) and serves as the Founding Director of the Centre for Family Business Management.

As one of the leading family business academics globally, Alfredo was included in Family Capital's list of Top 100 Family Business Influencers for the strong influence of his thought leadership on the global shaping of the family business field.

Emanuela Rondi is Assistant Professor at the University of Bergamo (Italy), she has been working on family business research for more than 10 years. PhD from Lancaster University Management School (UK), with a thesis on the role of family relationships for family firm innovation. Since 2017 she is member of the Centre for Family Business Management of the Free University of Bozen-Bolzano (Italy).

The FT Guide to Investing

The Definitive Companion to Investment and the Financial Markets, 5th Edition

Glen Arnold

SYNOPSIS

The definitive introduction to the art of successful stock market investing

This bestselling investing bible debunks the myth that only the wealthy can afford to buy shares and shows you how you can be just as successful trading on your own as you would be employing a fund manager. You'll discover that investing can be both profitable and fun and have the key tools and understanding you need to help you build a successful personal portfolio. Author Glen Arnold covers the basics of what investors do and why companies need them, through to the practicalities of buying and selling shares and how to make the most from your money.

- Understand different types of investment vehicles
- Discover tools needed to build a successful portfolio
- Find out how to analyse companies with a view to investment, understanding their accounts, and measuring their performance and risk

The fifth edition of this investing classic has been thoroughly updated to bring the book up-to-date with the latest rules and regulations, with fresh examples, Financial Times articles and links to further guidance throughout.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Glen Arnold, PhD, runs his own equity portfolio, and invests other people's money in exactly the same shares in a Managed Portfolio Service at Henry Spain Investment Services. He used to teach in the City and was a Professor of Investment but concluded that academic life was not nearly as much fun, nor as intellectually stimulating, as making money in the markets. For decades, his research focus explored the question: 'What works in investment?' drawing on the ideas of the great investors, academic discoveries and his own experience, good and bad.

As well as being author of the UK's number 1 investment book, The Financial Times Guide to Investing, he wrote the investing classics, The Great Investors, The Financial Times Guide to Value Investing, Get Started In Shares, and the four volumes of The Deals of Warren Buffett. He has also written several market-leading university textbooks including Corporate Financial Management, as well as the best-selling book on banking, The Financial Times Guide to Banking.
